DEFER POTTERS' TARIFF AID

FEDERAL BOARD WILL NOT HEAR APPEAL UNTIL 1928, IS HINT

National Brotherhood Will Insist Upon Early Action.
DUFFY GETS WORD
Washington Officials Promised Decision in December.

Appeal of the American pottery industry for tariff protection against the inroads of European production will not be acted upon until 1928, representatives of the United States Potters' association were advised today by the federal tariff commission in Washington.

Promised December Meeting.

Declaring that the press of other matters preclude the possibility of completing the commission's findings on its investigation of the ceramic situation abroad, Thomas Marvin, chairman of the commission, has ruled that the Washington board cannot consider the request of the domestic industry early in December, as promised a few months ago.

President James M. Duffy, of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, advised of the tariff board's proposed program, was expected today to renew his appeal for earlier action at Washington.

Duffy and Secretary John D. McGill, traveling on route to an Atlantic City, N. J., session of the Brotherhood executive board, went to Washington early in the fall, when they were given an audience by the tariff commissioners. The promise was obtained then that the pottery industry's request for relief would be considered on or about December 1.

Ramon Novarro Stars In American Picture

"Lovers," Story Laid in Romantic Settings, Opens Three-day Engagement.

Can there be a pure friendship between a man and a beautiful woman?

"Lovers," Ramon Novarro's latest production, at the American theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday, answers that question in a startling vivid manner that will linger long in the memory of every picturegoer who sees it.

Laid in the romantic settings of modern Spain, it is filled with the gayety of ultra modern society, and tells the gripping, enthralling story of a family whose lives are wrecked and whose souls are all but swamped by a hidden enemy with whom they cannot cope, the enemy of underground gossip and scandal.

Alice Terry enacts the part of the woman, an innocent young wife who sinks in the sea of slander the gossiping city has caused. This is the first time in some seasons that Novarro and Miss Terry have played opposite each other and as they are one of the famous pairs of screen lovers, their appearance together promises unrivalled entertainment. Thrills are provided by a sensational duel. The cast is one of exceptional merit, including Roy D'Arcy, George K. Arthur, Edward Connelly, Edward Martindel and John Miljan.

Mr. Rockefeller, at the Kimball and Billy Lodge's orchestra, will offer a musical entertainment, while Kinograms, "Topics of the Day" and a Neal Burns comedy complete the bill. The American announces the coming of "Seventh Heaven" next Monday.

Solves The Cuckoo's Secret. A widely known student of birds, F. F. Bunyard, thinks he has solved the ancient controversy as to whether the cuckoo lays her eggs directly in the nests of the small birds she victimizes or lays them elsewhere and carries them in her bill to deposit in the nest. That the latter theory is nearer the mark he discovered recently by constructing a "blind" and spying on a cuckoo. He told an English scientific society that he saw a cuckoo deposit her egg by regurgitation, or

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I can not praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Sellers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1927.

Death of Postmaster J. E. McClure

Death of J. Edwin McClure, veteran government employee, who had been postmaster here since April 7, 1924, when he was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of M. E. Miskall, came as a shock to his East Liverpool friends. Although in ill health for several weeks, his condition did not become serious until ten days before the end.

"Ted" McClure, as the postmaster was popularly known, had spent 33 of his 55 years in the postal service, rapidly advancing from a clerical place to superintendent of mails and later head of the East Liverpool office.

His appointment as the successor of the late M. E. Miskall, whose death was unexpected, was a popular one, for Mr. McClure's ability as well as his affability had won him the friendship of his fellow citizens.

The late postmaster, who was a man of sterling Christian character, fulfilled the duties of his office in a manner that merited the confidence of his superiors and the people of his native city.

Russian Progress

"The Russian people are poor—desperately poor," says an American publicist who has been among them. "Sooner or later they will be compelled to search abroad for credit. And when that comes about, Bolshevism will cease to be."

"Russia is singularly lacking in the mechanical conveniences of our age, and it will be largely by forced contact with other nations, to obtain these conveniences, that the Russian people will be led to throw out their present political and economic system."

Even now Russia, while still breathing fire and flame against "capitalism," is reaching abroad for capital and credit, to finance her industry and trade. The Russians will learn much, gradually, from business contacts. And importing capital, they will end by finding themselves capitalistic.

That will not necessarily bring them into the paradise that Bolshevism has failed to provide. But it will enable them to get along in this actual world, as contrasted with the dream-world of their leaders, and will give them a chance to make a living.

Ability of Boys and Girls

A distinguished musician, who is director of a school of music in Philadelphia, makes this keen comment on his pupils:

"I find more talented girls than boys. But the most talented boy always goes farther than the most talented girl."

This is a difference that other educators have observed in other schools, though seldom have any of them expressed it so vividly. Doubtless exceptions will be found. But the tendency, in schools devoted to the special arts, and also in high schools and colleges, is probably as this musician suggests.

Girls in general seem brighter, but the brightest boys, in the long run, are likely to surpass the brightest girls.

History seems to support this view, with its lists of masculine and feminine geniuses, though there has always been some doubt about that, because in former ages women lacked men's educational advantages and opportunities.

Is there really a fundamental difference, then, in the native ability of the sexes? That doesn't necessarily follow. "I guess it's the fighting power," says the music director, "that takes the boys ahead in the end. They are physically stronger than the girls."

Stage Set For Expansion

The business situation in the United States this year has been confusing. It is so still, to many people. This is mainly because it has been so uneven—good in some industries and localities, and bad in others. The pessimists have had more to say than the optimists, which is natural. Those whose own business was bad felt that business in general was bad. Many have insisted that conditions were getting worse; some, that there was little hope ahead.

How about it? The general reviewers, who study conditions in the country as a whole, checking up bad industries and localities with good ones and dealing in sum totals and broad tendencies, have been more cheerful all along, and show signs of greater cheerfulness now.

Here, for example, is one of the latest and most dependable reviews published, that of the National City Bank of New York: "Measured by the usual tests little basis for pessimism appears. There is no inflation of prices. Inventories are generally at low levels. Industrial efficiency is increasing, lowering costs of production and thus maintaining the purchasing power of the mass of the people in step with the increase in the volume of output. The transportation system is functioning smoothly. Labor supplies are ample, and the relations between labor and capital never more amicable. Disparity between agricultural and non-agricultural prices is being corrected and farm prosperity is returning. Finally, money continues easy and favorable to the employment of funds for expansive purposes.

"These are not preliminary symptoms of recession, but rather the usual stage-setting for expansion. With business standing on solid ground, it seems probable that reaction has gone about as far as it is due to go, and that barring seasonal slackening and shut downs for inventory-taking any change henceforward will be on the side of improvement rather than the reverse."

Every time the exiled Prince Carol looks toward Roumania, he wants to yank that five-year-old son off the throne and spank him.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Times Square is supposed to be the most sophisticated strip of territory in Manhattan—and perhaps is. It is the open forum certainly for all the wise-acts and sure-thing boys who live by their wits. And is the pivotal point for winking ladies.

Every type of grafter—from the thimble rigger to the pompous promoter—may be found along its curbs. There are scores of those Bennies and Eddies so freshly barbered and certain the world is their oyster. Also, painted girls who publicly sneer at men they secretly support.

Times Square regulars talk in big terms. If they win a ten-spot playing the ponies, they tell the same evening of cleaning up "a grand." All know Lee, Jake and Flo "personally." In fact they slipped those producers most of their "wow" ideas.

The real guys to them are those millionaire kids who cut a swath until Pappas cart them off to play with spoils in a sanitarium. Times Square, never spending, worships a spender. It is a hard-boiled area generously streaked with a mawkish sentimentality.

The denizens love to shed a few crocodile tears over a home-and-mother song in a soggy cabaret among these types to help some one over a rough spot an dyon will find they were that very morning "caught in the market."

Times Square is a paradise for those who look upon honest labor as the gesture of boobs. And there is no denying that somehow or other they manage to live year after year, eating regularly and wearing the niftiest of clothes without once turning their hands to toil.

They have no friends. Everybody is "a pal"—the sort that would go the limit just for them. There are people who, if they hang around the neighborhood long enough, acquire "the Times Square look." They are whetted to a certain sharpness that means no good for a sucker.

The celebrity banner game gyp has about passed out. Nobody wants to sit around and hear a lot of dull speeches about Mr. Whozis anymore. It was all right when good liquor was plentiful and men could tune up so that almost every speech sounded all right and it offered a good excuse for a night out. There were several men who made from $10,000 to $20,000 a year promoting dinners for whatever celebrity—real or near—who would stand the racket.

There is difficulty, to, in securing a capable speaker for the evening. Irvin Cobb will seldom appear anymore. Will Rogers is not here. Indeed New York seems to have only long winded bores left.

The best impromptu speech I ever heard was by the late Renold Wolf, the dramatic critic. It lasted exactly four minutes—with no time out for frequent hearty laughs. And reversing George M. Cohan's "always leave them laughing when you say good-bye," Wolfe left them with lumps in their throats.

Collegiates are going in for a new one—puffing at corn cob pipes. Several had to be rebuked for trying out the new smoke while sitting in Tuxedo elegance at supper clubs. One tossed out for refusing to pocket his pipe, declared the waiter who did the tossing had a few minutes previously offered to sell him a packet of cocaine.

The latest in new fangled walking sticks is one with a clear amber handle. A push button makes the handle and electric torch for finding the keyhole. There is also a little place to hold a gold plated key to the door.

In two restaurants this week the hat check girls took my hat and stick without giving checks—which goes to show I'm getting to be quite a card around town.

MEET THE "LOVERS"

—AMERICAN NOW.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

America's Main Street.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17.—How to make the most of a great transcontinental highway is to be demonstrated by The U. S. 66 Highway association, an organization formed to develop and to exploit the new route from Chicago to Los Angeles, which, in addition to its official dedication by the department of agriculture, has been more colorfully christened the Main Street of America.

The association purposes first to make its highway the widest and best of all roadways leading to the Pacific coast, and then to lead the people of the communities and states it serves to utilizing it to their greatest possible advantage. It is promised that this undertaking will become something to attract national attention, for the up-and-coming citizens in some 200 cities and towns with close to 150 active chambers of commerce are in action and their leaders say they will put the Southwest on the map as it has never been done before.

U. S. 66 traverses Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California, is a little over 2,000 miles in length, and has a tributary population of more than 6,000,000. It is shorter, it is claimed, than any railroad route from Chicago to Los Angeles, and almost 20 miles shorter than any other highway between the Great Lakes and the Pacific.

The further claim is made for it that it is at present better maintained than any other as an all-year, all-weather road, and that it is unique in that it transects or intersects nearly all of the East and West thoroughfares and many of the North and South Federal roads as well. It passes through eight states, as enumerated, and ultimately, with its laterals and the highways which it intersects, it will serve directly the people of thirteen states and indirectly all those of all the other states who tour in automobiles.

Present State of the Road. Every mile of Route 66 will be paved within the next two years, it is hoped. At present the Illinois sector is all paved, as is three-fourths of the road through Missouri. The remainder of the Missouri road is now of gravel construction in excellent condition and it is expected that the state highway department will concrete that next year. A perfect concrete pavement leads through Kansas. In Oklahoma considerable sections have been paved and bonds have been voted to insure a concrete ribbon across that state next year. The same assurance is given as to the road through the Panhandle of Texas and on the western end California will pave her part of 66 from the Arizona line to Los Angeles. This will leave the road through Arizona and New Mexico without concrete pavement, but that part of the highway will be hardurfaced.

John T. Woodruff, of Springfield, Mo., is the president of U. S. 66 Highway association. E. B. Guthrie is executive secretary, and Lon Scott, corresponding secretary. There is a vice-president for each of the eight states and it has been said that each and every one of them is a millionaire. However that may be, they are all rich in enthusiasm for the project they have undertaken and they are giving to it freely of their time and money. One of them, for example, bought and paid for with his own money some of the right of way for U. S. 66 through his state and then was instrumental in putting over the bond issue that was necessary for the concrete paving.

"We are," they say, "first of all a building association anxious to have in Southwest America the nation's longest and widest concrete boulevard. While other highway associations fuss and fight over traffic, we go on about our bond issues to provide concrete paving for U. S. 66. And in the near future we'll begin telling the country through a series of advertisements in newspapers and magazines, and through other methods of publicity, that we have the shortest and best all-year, all-weather route from Chicago to Los Angeles."

The big idea is to bring to the attention of the motoring public the desirability of driving, living, and doing business along the "Main Street of America." The men who are trying to put it over say that U. S. 66 serves the greatest undeveloped area in the United States and they expect to see to it that it brings them in a lot of new neighbors.

One of Their Publicity Stunts.

One of the publicity stunts which is relied on to put that section of the country and its highway enterprise on the front pages of the newspapers for several days is an international Transcontinental Foot Race to be run from Los Angeles to New York City early next year. This will be the world's greatest Marathon, if it materializes as planned.

There will be a $25,000 prize for the winner of the event, with additional prizes totaling a like amount. It is stated also that the promoters will spend $300,000 in advertising the race and in the other expenses that will be incurred.

Over 200 of the best foreign runners have been entered for the event, it is asserted, and will arrive in this country some time in January to become acclimated and finish training, and nearly 100 Central and South American Indians are expected to be in the running. Not more than 1,000 entrants will be permitted to toe off, according to the advance announcements.

The promoter-in-chief of this unique enterprise is, as might be expected, none other than Charles C. Pyle, the man who put over professional football with "Red" Grange as a star and professional tennis with Suzanne Lenglen as the big drawing card. He has associated with him William H. Pickens, known as a manager of automobile racers and airplane stunt flyers.

It is understood that the race will be run in sectors of 50 to 75 miles, each sector to be covered in a day. The contestants will be started at the same hour each morning and the time each requires to make the day's allotted distance will be recorded, the one completing the entire 3,000 miles in the shortest actual running time to be the winner. Each day's running will be in the nature of a separate event, with prizes distinct from those offered for the big race, and it is possible that contestants who do not expect to attempt to "go the whole route" will be permitted to enter a day's contest.

It has not been revealed how the affair will be handled in order that the promoters will have an opportunity to make money out of their enterprise, but it is a reasonably safe wager that a way has been or will be devised. Otherwise Mr. Pyle would not be interesting himself in it, for he has never been known to promote anything for his health, that being generally satisfactory. The only thing that really ever made him ill, it is stated, was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's refusal to commercialize his transatlantic flight with Pyle as the enterprising promoter.

If the transcontinental Marathon is run, and if the contestants run every day and average 50 miles a day, the race will last rather more than two months.

Fried OYSTERS

the elusive "sea taste" retained

Select large oysters. Wash them, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip first in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and again in bread crumbs. Place in a wire basket and drop into deep Crisco heated until it browns a cube of bread in 40 seconds. Fry until nicely browned. Drain on paper. Serve hot with tomato sauce or catsup.

The real "ocean flavor" of the oyster is a delicate, elusive flavor—oysters must be fried in a "delicate" fat. I prefer Crisco for frying oysters, because as Crisco has no taste or odor of itself, it allows real oyster flavor "to come out." Oysters fried in Crisco are a crisp, golden brown outside—tender and digestible inside.

To test your cooking fat—taste it. Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

NO PLANS MADE FOR ROLL

CITY CHAPTER OF RED CROSS IS LEADERLESS

Washington Instructions Are Awaited by Members.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Rev. R. W. Ustick Was Chairman Last Year.

What action Wellsville's Red Cross executive committee may take in respect to the annual Red Cross roll call will depend largely on the result of communications with national officers, it was announced here today.

Members of the executive committee were frank in admitting that it is possible that there may be no roll call at all, unless some steps are taken immediately to reorganize forces to handle the work.

In the event that there is no campaign, it is likely that the local chapter would lose its Red Cross charter. The Red Cross committee is without a chairman as a result of the departure of Rev. R. W. Ustick, former pastor of the United Presbyterian church, to Springfield, where he recently accepted a new church.

Plans for reorganizing the executive affairs of the chapter have not been acted upon since his departure. However, members of the executive committee are hopeful that steps may be taken within the near future for the revival of the membership campaign.

B. L. E. DIVISION PLANS DINNER

Three "40-year" Members to be Honored in Cleveland.

A number of Wellsville Pennsylvania Railroad engineers and their families will attend the dinner-dinner to be held on Monday night in Cleveland by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in honor of three Cleveland members of the order, all of whom have passed the 40-year mark in membership in the organization.

The event, in many respects, will be similar to that held last Sunday in the Knights of Pythias lodge room here by Division 170 of the B. of L. E., when William Davidson received a badge of honor from the brotherhood. William Davidson, resident of Center street, and a retired railroad man, is the oldest member of the brotherhood in Wellsville.

Approximately 75 attended the observance here, including railroad men from Cleveland, Alliance, Steubenville and other points.

H. M. RUSSELL WEDS KATHLEEN BEATTY

Announcement is made of the wedding of Miss Kathleen Beatty, daughter of Mrs. A. L. Beatty and Harry M. Russell, both of Wellsville. The ceremony took place in the residence of Rev. E. P. Herbruck at Mt. Marie, Canton, Wednesday at noon in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride wore a gown of brown transparent velvet, with hat and slippers to match and carried a corsage of Sunburst roses.

Following the service, a wedding luncheon was served at La Porte Overture, at a table garlanded with yellow and orange pompons and illumined with tall bronze tapers tied with bows of tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell left by motor for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will spend the winter. Mrs. Russell was a teacher in the Canton schools. Among the guests were Mrs. A. L. Beatty and James Beatty, of Wellsville.

Honor Rev. L. E. Lee At Birthday Party

Surprise Event Given By Three Adult Sunday School Classes.

Rev. L. E. Lee, pastor of the First Christian church, was honored last night at a surprise party given by members of the Loyal Women's, Loyal Men's and Delta Alpha Sunday school classes, the occasion being his birthday anniversary.

The luncheon and program, given in the basement of the church, followed mid-week prayer meeting. Approximately 125 members of the three classes were present.

Occupying the guest table were Rev. and Mrs. Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davis, Indian missionaries, and the three class teachers, Naomi Forner, of the Loyal Women; Mrs. Charles Robb, of the Delta Alpha, and George Wilson, of the Loyal Men.

Mr. Davis opened the program with a short talk as to the purpose of the meeting, in which it was disclosed that the three classes were honoring Rev. Lee's birthday anniversary. At the conclusion of his talk, a large birthday cake, baked by Mrs. D. T. O'Hara, was uncovered, and the pastor was presented with a suit case.

Rev. Lee responded with a brief talk. Several Negro spirituals were sung by Mrs. Lee, accompanied by Miss Mildred Armstrong. Native costumes were exhibited by Mrs. Davis, including women's gowns, worn by Mrs. Mary Grafton. Two little girls, Jeanette Grafton and Mildred James, displayed costumes worn by children. Photograph records of native songs were played and a reading was given by Mrs. Walter as additional features. The dining room was attractively decorated for the event by a committee including Mrs. Roy Boring, Mrs. Cloyd Boring, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. W. J. Rhurak and Mrs. Mary Donnelly.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous lackwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have hollow complexion, dulled eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All drug-gists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

ZENITH RADIO

THE QUALITY GOES IN BEFORE THE NAME GOES ON

Why does not Zenith build a radio receiver to sell for less than $100.00?

The answer is that the Zenith standard of quality cannot be built into a receiver of lower price. Zenith will not put its name to a receiver that is not highly selective, powerful and faithful to the entire tone scale.

Performance comes first in Zenith—there is no compromise. The 6-tube set has six working tubes instead of five working tubes and one balancing tube. Instead of three condensers the 6-tube set has four—the 8 and 10-tube sets have five and six condensers respectively.

Time and again, Zenith has published this unwavering challenge to the world of radio:

The challenge stands today as it has stood from the beginning—so long as Zenith makes radio it will be the best radio.

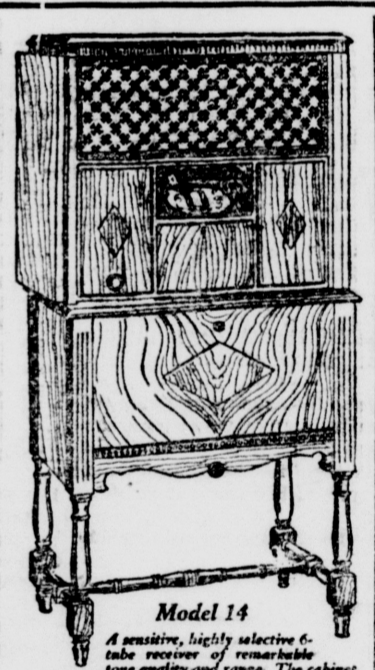

"Under identical circumstances and conditions, and taking our various models in their proper grade, we challenge any make of radio receiver to equal or surpass Zenith performance in quality or quantity of tone; selectivity; sensitivity; distance; ease of operation; precision of manufacture and general all around appearance.

Zenith is the only radio set that McMillan would take to the Arctic.

Zenith is the holder of the world's long distance record—Japan to New Jersey.

Zenith has been first in most of the important developments in radio—25 original mechanical and electric achievements that have revolutionized radio.

That is why Zenith is the most logical choice in radio.

Model 14

RAILROADS HIT ON PORCELAIN COMPANY MOVE

Aftermath of Erection of Parkersburg, W. Va., Plant.

RATES WERE CUT

Federal Commission Orders Ban on Discrimination.

RAILROADS ? ? 82717111
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—After 15 years railroads have been punished for inducing the General Porcelain company to remove from East Liverpool, O., to Parkersburg, W. Va.

To induce that move, railroads admitted in an interstate commerce commission case, they had made a rate offer which enabled the General Porcelain company to leave East Liverpool with better freight rates promised.

The revelation came in the complaint brought by the Jeffrey-Dewitt Insulator company, which charged that the railroads were forcing it to pay unreasonable and unduly prejudicial rates on insulators from Kenova, W. Va. The commission, in a decision just handed down, orders a reasonable and nonprejudicial rate.

The complainant competes with plants at East Liverpool and several other cities. It was claimed that the distance from Kenova to New York was not sufficiently greater than that from East Liverpool to New York to warrant the spread in rates. It also was claimed that the Parkersburg company, formerly in East Liverpool, benefited by a lower rate. The commission so found and ordered the discrimination removed.

EDWARDS NOW CLERK OF COURTS

A Earl Edwards yesterday entered upon his duties as clerk of the municipal court to fill out the unexpired term of Miss Ruth Finnie, who died last spring.

Since the death of Miss Finnie, Mrs. Alice Birch has been acting court clerk, her appointment having been made by Judge Hanley pending the election of a successor. Mrs. Birch will remain in the clerk's office while Edwards is familiarizing himself with the duties.

Joseph Strauss, city treasurer-elect, also took charge of the city treasurer's office yesterday, having been named by Mayor Benedum to take the post made vacant by Edwards' resignation.

This Nurse Just Couldn't Stop Coughing

Specialists Didn't Help

For slight ordinary coughs almost any sweet cough syrup will do, but if you have one of those tough, old timers, that hang on and die hard and that won't yield to common remedies and often keeps you awake at night then your one best bet is Broncholine Emulsion.

Often a dozen doses forces the most stubborn cough to yield and loosen up and you are better almost before you know it.

There is no sugar, chloroform or dope in Broncholine Emulsion, it's a wonderful medicine for people who are getting over a heavy obstinate cold or an attack of flu.

A New York nurse coughed for weeks—just couldn't stop coughing even after consulting specialists—yet one half bottle of Broncholine Emulsion did stop it—Completely.

Carnahan's Drug Stores have a big demand for this REAL cough medicine and so do dealers everywhere.

12 TENTATIVE JURORS SEATED IN REMUS CASE

Another Capacity Crowd in Cincinnati Court Room.
CALL NEW PANEL
Spectators' Eyes on Former Bootlegger King.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
COURT HOUSE, CINCINNATI, Nov. 17.—Mention of the name of Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., at the trial today of George Remus, former bootlegger king, provoked a bitter legal battle in which the spectacular Remus, acting as attorney for himself, took an active part. Dodge is the man whom Remus alleges won the affections of his wife and caused her to "double cross" him.
The clash came during the examination of George Awrey, a prospective jurymen. Awrey testified he was 67, a former oil operator and upon being questioned by Remus admitted that his son was a judge at Ann Arbor, Michigan, for many years.
By James L. Kilgallen.
COURT HOUSE, CINCINNATI, Nov. 17.—Another capacity crowd battled its way into criminal court today to see George Remus, the imaginative genius who forsook the law to manipulate a $10,000,000 bootleg business to defend himself from the charge of killing his wife, Imogene, whom he shot because she double crossed him.
The tedious task of selecting a jury was resumed with twelve tentatively accepted jurors in the box. The exercising of peremptory challenges by the state and defense proceeded after a

15 PASTORS AT MEET HERE

District Ministers Convene in Nazarene Church.

Pastors from 15 churches are attending a meeting of the East Liverpool zone preachers' organization which is being held in the Church of the Nazarene, St. Clair avenue, today. Visitors from Lisbon, Salem, Youngstown, Warren, Alliance, West Point, New Galilee, New Castle, East Palestine, Newell, Chester and Wellsville are in attendance. A session was held this afternoon the visitors remaining over for the revival service to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight.
Rev. Theodore Elsner, New York, will preach on "What Think Ye of Christ?" at tonight's service. Rev. and Mrs. Elsner will also sing and play guitar selections, and there will be special music by a male quartet, new panel of 50 talesmen was sworn in.
Remus was the magnet that drew the crowd. The spectators watched this strange, stockily built man with the large bald head comfort himself in a manner befitting a lawyer in a case that has attracted national attention. He perused bulky law books, scribbled in ledgers and now and then took the floor to question talesmen in his deep throaty voice. Words rolled easily and sonorously from his ready tongue. He was dressed in a neat fitting blue business suit. A pearl gleamed from his black tie.

SIX INJURED IN COLLISION

Six persons, five of them Leetonia high school girls, were injured in a head-on collision between a sedan and a bakery company truck in the Youngstown road, between Woodworth and North Lima, at 5:45 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Edward Saurwine, driver of the car, was cut on the knee, while Miss Anna Garrett, another student, was lacerated on the left leg. The injured were members of a party of 65 persons, 60 of whom were high school girls, who had attended a cooking school in the Rayen High school auditorium, Youngstown, yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred, it is claimed, when the driver of the bakery truck, headed toward Youngstown, attempted to pull around a third machine which had been parked on the right side of the road. The condemned prisoner confessed that he killed the lad after murdering Mrs. Brown, a few minutes before at the Brown residence, in Conneaut, last spring.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Industrial stocks followed an irregular price trend in the early trading today. Profit-taking and professional selling made their appearance promptly at the opening of the market, and the speculative leaders in the industrial and specialty groups were bent backward a point or more. New advances were inaugurated, however, in a number of the railroad and oil stocks, the former receiving the benefit of a favorable report on equipment conditions.
Washington dispatches intimating the probability of new legislation to force corporations to distribute surplus earnings stimulated buying of stocks of well-known companies that accumulated large surpluses in recent years.

Voltaire said of the English that they were like their beer—froth at the top, dregs at the bottom, excellent in the middle. On this occasion some of the bottom and top met.

Scientists seeking "cold light" hope to find it in "atomic vibration," produced by shifting of the electrons in their orbits inside the atom. Planets in our solar systems are electrons on a big scale. If they changed their orbits and collided, there would be plenty of light for a moment, but not light without heat.

Of one thing you may be sure; the human brain doesn't produce any light worth while, in education, art or science, without much heat and genuine combustion. You must, as Dante said, "Work as nature works, in fire," or your work amounts to little.

Engineers from everywhere watched the Shipping Board's freighter Moser experimenting yesterday with pulverized coal for fuel. All business men that burn coal, and especially all city officials, are interested.
Fires from pulverized coal cut cost and produce no smoke.

A great automobile combination is removed, with the able Mr. Durant at the head of it, involving the sum of $200,000,000.

Once that would have sounded impressive, but it is only a little more than the annual dividend of General Motors at the present rate. The bigger the unit, the better for business. It is hard for little fish to live in these waters without the help of mass advertising, which they can't well afford.

CHICAGO BLAST BURNS SEVEN MEN

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—One man was fatally burned and six others are not expected to live as the result of a blast in an iron and steel plant here today.
The explosion was the result of a stream of cold water striking a vat containing molten metal, police were informed.

$10,000 LIQUOR CARGO SEIZED

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 17.—Three men, alleged to have been in charge of a moving van containing beer and whiskey valued at about $10,000 which was seized late Wednesday, are to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Frederick W. Gaines here today.

The prisoners gave their names as E. P. Marshall, 28, Detroit; Roy Allison, 28, Cleveland, and Joe Vogel, 29, St. Louis. They contended that their bosses were riding in a convey automobile and escaped when the officers approached. It is believed the cargo was brought from Detroit though the van bears an Indiana license plate.

EXPECT VERDICTS TODAY IN BEAVER COURT CASES

JURORS WILL RULE IN SUITS FOR DAMAGES

Ruth Allender Presses Action Against New Brighton.

SECOND TRIAL

Judges Reader and McConnell Preside at Fall Session.

Verdicts were expected today in two damage suits heard at Beaver county court house before Judges Frank E. Reader and William A. McConnell. Both cases went to juries about noon yesterday.

In one of the suits Ruth Allender, of New Brighton, seeks damages from the borough for injuries alleged to have been sustained when she fell over a pile of rubbish in the street. No agreement could be reached by a jury which heard the case in 1923. Other case is that of Nick Kombois, Woodlawn, against Ethel Jones Dallas, also of Woodlawn. Kombois is suing for recovery of money involved in a contract for repairs of a dwelling.

Case of George Fronko, Colons, against John Ulicney, in an action for damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered by Fronko in an accident to a truck driven by Ulicney, is now under way in court of Judge Reader. Fronko, employed in 1923 as a bricklayer by Ulicney, contractor, was being taken home from his work when the crash occurred.

Verdict in favor of plaintiffs, awarding John Beltz $84.50 and his wife, Pearl, of Freedom, $16.08, against Frank A. Janson, also of Freedom, was returned yesterday by jury in Judge Reader's court.

Mrs. Beltz was alleged to have suffered injuries while a guest in Janson's automobile when it figured in an accident.

Replevin action brought by the Mitchell Motor company against David J. Mitchell, Monaca, was scheduled for hearing tomorrow.

MAN IS KILLED IN PLANT FIRE

Charles Higginbotham Dies in Beaver Falls Blaze.

Funeral services were held in Beaver Falls this afternoon for Charles Higginbotham, 33, night superintendent, who lost his life in the fire which swept No. 1 unit of the Beaver Falls plant of the Rossman corporation, formerly Beaver Falls Art Tile company, yesterday.

Fire, of undetermined origin, started in the shipping and packing room of the plant, also injured two persons and resulted in damage estimated at $200,000. Low water pressure hampered Beaver Falls and New Brighton fire departments.

Chief Elmer Faust, New Brighton fire department, sustained a cut on his right arm and William Keeler, night watchman, was bruised when he fell down a flight of stairs.

Higginbotham, it is believed, lost his life attempting to save part of the plant from fire. He was dead when admitted to Providence hospital.

He had been employed as night superintendent for three years. Besides his widow, Mrs. Hattie L. Higginbotham, he leaves a brother, Homer, of Waterford, Miss.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for it."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of Colic, or when you even suspect the approach of constipation, or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning: the above advice is true of genuine

Castoria. The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know us to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

"I Recommend It To My Friends!"

The old adage about the value of "an ounce of prevention" certainly applies in the care of your complexion. Charming woman everywhere, like Mabel Edinger of Brooklyn, N. Y., use Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream to prevent weathering of the skin and to keep it youthfully smooth and lovely.

"I use Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream and find it most satisfactory," says Miss Edinger. "I never hesitate to recommend it to my friends!"

The pure-snowy cream disappears instantly, leaving an invisible film of protection against the darkening, coarsening effects of sun and wind, and preserving the natural, beauty-giving oils and moisture. It whitens and refines the skin, too, and provides an ideal powder base.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—For undisturbed tranquillity a vacuum has been created on the federal radio commission and all its works. The commission itself is unsubstantial, uncertain, unreal.

ASPIRIN

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by a Bayer Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; its use avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Bayer Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetoneester of Salicylicacid

It was created by the skin of congress' teeth, in the very act of adjournment last spring. It so narrowly missed not being created at all that it did miss any salaries or a cent's worth of financial support. Its constitutionality's doubtful. Tested, it's a question if there is any such thing. In the absence of more legislation next winter — and the chances are even that there'll be none — even the present shadow of a commission will dissolve into its original nothingness, without leaving a grease spot.

IT deals in nothingness, too. Imagine one of its hearings! CRZY asks certain indeterminate privileges in an undefinable medium, to do something that nobody understands. MNCL objects, on the ground that unascertainable rights which it already enjoys would be prejudiced by the commission's acquiescence in CHZY's indefinite demands.

THE commission (investigating): What is it that CRZY hopes to accomplish if the radio board concurs in its unknown requirements? CRZY: That remains to be seen. The commission: How do you prove it? CRZY: We have 1,921 affidavits here, from listeners in, making oath that it's so.

The commission: But how can your affidavits make oath so confidently, inasmuch as your inexplicable application is as yet unacted on? CRZY: We asked them to. The commission: In that case the affidavits will be received and placed on file.

MNCL: We have seventeen pounds of affidavits to show that the loss to the indemonstrable number of our listeners in would be incalculable if our sphere of activity were in any degree curtailed.

The commission (to CRZY): How much do yours weigh? CRZY: We counted ours. Shall we send out and get scales?

The commission: Too late. You should have come prepared. Application dismissed for lack of evidence.

THIS may sound like an exaggeration, but it isn't so far off.

The commission, almost frankly, doesn't know whether it's afoot or horseback, trying to make a small keful of air or ether, or whatever it is, go 'round among a howling

FAMOUS SPECIALIST DISCOVERS WAY TO END CORNS

Dr. Edmund Levy, D.C., Ph.D., a leading authority on foot ailments, has conducted many experiments while seeking a method to actually remove corns and callouses permanently. Being familiar with all so-called "corn cures" on the market, including the liquid remedies, Dr. Levy was in a position to judge them from practical knowledge gained in his practice. In his opinion they were failures and in many cases very harmful. The only survivor of his rigid tests was "END-O-CORN". He found that "END-O-CORN" ALWAYS removed hard, soft, corns, and vascular corns and left the surrounding flesh in healthy condition. It contains no alcohol or ether to evaporate and will not harden in the jar so is the cheapest corn remedy on the market. "END-O-CORN" is endorsed by the following Druggists, but if they are not near you and your neighborhood Druggist doesn't have it write to END-O-CORN LABORATORIES, 1 Garfield Blvd., Chicago, who will see that you receive a jar. Carnahan Drug Co.

mob of broadcasters who need a hogshedful, if all are to be taken care of.

Add to this the fact that there are no known rules of procedure before the board, and it isn't so hard to realize why one of its hearings is a weird thing.

NO known rules of procedure is right up to a certain point. None is known to the commissioners, that is to say, for there isn't a lawyer among the whole five.

Frank D. Scott, who was chairman of the house of representatives committee which wiggled the radio bill through congress at the last minute, is a lawyer, though, and he knows some rules.

Being out of congress now, there's no reason why he shouldn't practice before the commission and he does. If anybody knows the rules that go with his own law, why shouldn't he? However, it doesn't seem quite fair, unless they could have him on both sides of every case.

She Awaits Great Work.

That the great English dictionary, started by her late husband, Sir James Murray, 53 years ago, will be completed before her death, was the hope expressed by Lady Murray when it announced recently that the massive work is nearing completion. It was the desire of her husband and herself that they celebrate the completion of the work, and their golden wedding at the same time. Lady Murray acted as her husband's secretary until her eyesight failed, and she was undergoing her third operation for cataract when her husband died. All of their 11 children helped in the task, and her only unmarried daughter is now engaged in the work. The dictionary contains words illustrated by about 1,750,000 quotations, and the latest single vol., from "Q" to "sh" is so heavy that an ordinary man can hardly lift it.

Illinois Risks Big Ten Title Chances In Buckeye Battle

OHIOANS' RECORD IS NO BAR TO VICTORY

Weaker Team May Upset Dope in This Meeting of Arch Rivals; Win for Zuppke Will Clinch Championship.

By Davis J. Walsh.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—Some heretic once said that history either seldom or never repeats and really it makes very little difference what he said because in both cases he is all wrong about the Ohio State-Illinois football series. If history repeats as it has in the past, then an inferior Ohio State team will win from a superior Illini outfit on Saturday and prevent the latter from taking due title to the Big Ten championship.

It has been done before by supposed weaker Buckeye or Illini teams in time to cheat the supposedly stronger team out of the title. In fact, this game somehow has served as the crux of the Western conference race a surprising number of times and has witnessed a series of surprising form handspins, as is proved by the following statistics:

Nine-Game Record.

1915—Ohio State, supposed to lose, got a 3 to 3 tie, forcing Illinois to accept a deadlock with Minnesota for the Big Ten title.

1916—Chick Harley's glory first saw the light of day as he scored the touchdown, tying Illinois, then changed his shoes to kick the goal, beating the Illini and winning the title.

1919—Ohio State favored to win but Illinois came through, 9 to 7, scoring Harley's only defeat of his conference career. The victory gave Illinois the Big Ten title.

1920—Ohio State beat Illinois with a forward pass, Workman to Myers, for the only touchdown of the game, with the timekeeper's gun sounding the final signal as the ball was in the air. The victory staked the Buckeyes to the title.

1921—Ohio State was supposed to have championship at its mercy since Illinois had won on conference games. But it won this one, and Iowa took the title.

1922—Ohio State had had a disastrous season, losing to Michigan, Minnesota, Chicago and Iowa. But the Buckeyes stepped out to win from Illinois, 6 to 3.

1924—Illinois scores its first victory over Ohio State at Urbana since 1918, winning, 7 to 0.

1926—Ohio State had one of the leading middle western teams and Illinois was merely ordinary but it carried the Buckeyes to a 7 to 6 score before it succumbed.

They Don't Score Many.

And there one is, as we say at the abattoir. Except for the first game of the series in 1914, which Illinois won by a 37 to 0 score, no game between Ohio State and Illinois has been decided by a margin greater than nine points, regardless of what may have been thought of the teams in the game calculations. And of the nine games played, five of them either have had an indirect or an extremely direct bearing on the disposal of the Big Ten championship.

So it will be on Saturday. If Illinois can win, it will have a clean conference record and cannot be deprived of the title, regardless of what Min-

Anything's Possible.

If it wasn't for what has gone before, one would be only a sap to grant Ohio State a chance on Saturday, for the Buckeye have blown games to Northwestern, Michigan and Princeton and looked none too good in doing it. But, then, there is always the possibility of all extraneous forces at Ohio moving in the same direction at one and the same time.

It may be that those temperamental Buckeye backs will run interference for one another just by way of variety. It may be that Dr. John Wiley, threatened with the guillotine by agitated Alumnus, will get his forward line playing smart, up and coming football for the occasion.

Even if these things do happen, Illinois should be a natural favorite. But not to win by a big margin. History simply forbids any one from being so optimistic as all of that.

Boxing Rules May Act In Sharkey Case

Fracture of Hand Turns Out to be "Mere Swelling."

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Following definite announcement by the official Massachusetts athletic commission physician that Jack Sharkey's reported fracture of the hand was "nothing more than a slight swelling," the New York commission today prepared to "hew to the line."

Sharkey's announcement from Boston that he had fractured his hand while training had resulted in postponement of the Sharkey-Heeney bout which had been scheduled for tomorrow night.

Anticipating the commission's order for Sharkey to appear here for questioning, the fighter's manager, wired last night that he would produce Sharkey before the commission Friday.

TIGER FLOWERS DEAD

TIGER FLOWERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Georgia Tiger is no more. Almost on the eve of what the great negro was found to regard as his "big chance to come back"—his return crack at the middleweight title—Theodore "Tiger" Flowers lay dead today.

His death, one of the most surprising in ring history, came early last night when he suffered a sudden relapse after undergoing a minor operation on his nose earlier in the day.

Practically unconscious from the time of the operation, Flowers had his best hour immediately preceding his death. But he began to sink fast.

and Dr. Fralick was summoned to his bedside by an assistant.

The "Tiger," otherwise known as the "Georgia Deacon," was born in Camille, Ga., on Aug. 5, 1895, and took up boxing while employed in the shipyards during the World war. He was discovered by his present manager, Walk Miller.

Miller brought him along at a fast pace which culminated in winning his way to the championship.

Flowers' good nature, his perpetual smile, his almost obsequious sportsmanship in the ring, and his many quaint little oddities of conduct had endeared him to the hearts of ring followers. The Deacon never began a fight without first kneeling for a moment in prayer.

He fought first professionally with Billy Hooper in 1918, winning by a knockout in the eleventh round.

Up until this year Flowers had engaged in 131 bouts, of which he had won 47 by knockouts and 52 on de-

WAR VET'S EPIC IN GATE CRASHING GETS HIM PRESIDENT'S GRID SEATS

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 17.—John Corrigan, local garage foreman is going to see the Army-Navy football game at the Polo grounds. How he got the tickets is an epic in the annals of gate crashing.

Corrigan was in the army during the World war. When he found that tickets to the game were almost impossible to obtain, he wrote to senators and representatives galore. But no luck came of this campaign.

Finally Corrigan saw in the newspapers that President and Mrs. Coolidge would be unable to attend. He sent a note to Representative Andrew and remarked that if the president was not using his tickets he might send them to Salem. He got the tickets.

cisions. He was knocked out eight times lost three times on a decision, fought two draws and engaged in 19 no decision bouts.

A natural southpaw, Flowers was one of the most unorthodox of fighters. He had a peculiar style that proved extremely difficult to combat. He was one of the few fighters to put his right foot forward in taking his ring stance. The "Deacon" packed a wallop in both hands, but his left was the most serious menace to his opponents.

Flowers weighed 160 pounds and was 5 feet 10 inches in height.

He is survived by his wife and a 6-year-old daughter. For the past several years the pugilist had made his home in Atlanta, Ga., where he was a deacon in a Negro church. It was said of Flowers that he donated a certain per cent of his earnings to religious causes.

Won Title From Greb.

Flowers won the middleweight title from Harry Greb, who died under almost similar circumstances in October, 1926, in a fifteen round decision bout at Madison Square Garden Feb. 20, 1926. He lost the championship to Mickey Walker on a decision in Chicago December 3 of the same year.

The Georgia Negro, a colorful battler of the ceaseless punching type, fought his last battle here on November 12, when he knocked out Leo Gates, a heavyweight, in four rounds.

Al Gorman knocked one Jack Blackburn, Baltimore, in fourth round.

Sally's Shoulders

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

"HER MAN" "MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

CHAPTER LXI.

Ted was true to his promise to come back the next day. For at half past five his little car came rattling and jingling and wheezing into the back yard, and stopped beside Aunt Emily's bed of flaming red salvia.

Sally saw him jump out and rush around the house at top speed.

She heard his voice in the front hall, loudly and cheerfully as Aunt Emily "where that good looking dancer of hers was."

The dancer was out in the kitchen helping with the salads, looking not at all like a dancer, good-looking or otherwise, at that moment.

She had a white cap pulled away down over her hair, and a white apron buttoned around her slim, graceful figure. She was measuring olive oil into a yellow bowl and did not look up when Ted burst into the warm, bright, cluttered room.

Had a Bad Cold But Accepted!

The theatre that evening, though her nose was red and eyes were running! For six hours is enough to conquer almost any cold. Here's what to do:

Take a plain, pleasant-tasting tablet which the smallest drugstore is never without. Pape's Cold Compound is what they call it. Harmless as it is, it will knock the worst cold—so quickly you'll think it was luck the first time.

A stubborn, chronic cold is broken up the same way; it just takes a little longer.

PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND

"Hello!" he said, his voice and his eyes filled with eagerness. "Going to talk to me today?"

"One—two—three," said Sally, counting the spoonfuls of green-gold oil. "Why, yes, go right ahead with anything you want to say, Ted." She looked up then, and shot Ted a humorous look from her deep, blue eyes.

He looked back at her helplessly, pleadingly. Then he waved one of his square, freckled hands in the direction of Hilda, the little waitress, who was stuffing celery with Roquefort cheese paste at the table under the windows.

"How can I talk to you here?" he asked quietly.

"How can I say all the things that I want to say to you with this girl listening in?" his eyes asked Sally, going from her to Hilda's innocent white-linen back that was turned to the room.

But Sally pretended not to see what was in his eyes at that moment. "Go right ahead, Ted," she said, indifferently. "I'm listening."

It was not a nice thing for her to do. But girls have been known to do just such cruel things to men when they don't happen to care particularly for them—and sometimes when they do!

"Can't you stop this work for a minute and come out on the front porch or some place where I can see you alone?" Ted asked, frowning.

"Here, I've come all this way to see you this afternoon—quit work early and everything—and now you won't talk to me!"

"Why, yes I will," answered Sally. "Only I can't stop what I'm doing. This French dressing has got to be ready to pour over the salads at 6 o'clock, and I've got to be dressed, too, by that time, I'm going to wait on table tonight."

"Well, I'd rather see you doing that than dancing for the mob," said Ted, in a depressed sort of way.

Sally's eyes widened. "I don't see anything wrong about doing that, either," she said bluntly. "John Nye had a fit over my doing it, just as you did, and just as my mother did. But I never could see what was so awful about it, myself."

"Well, I'll tell you why I hated to see you do it," Ted answered. "I couldn't help notice the way the men all looked at you—and I hated the notion of their eyes going all over you like flies crawling all over you, somehow."

"Shocked," Sally stared at him, her hands in mid-air, holding a can of red pepper and a spoon. She never had thought of that in all the time when she had shaken her shoulders and clicked up her light little heels around the big dining room. She had thought the men who came there to eat were watching her dancing, not the little young body. "To the pure all things are pure."

"Oh!" said Sally, and her voice was very small. "I see."

She wondered if that was why John Nye had been so angry and disgusted with her—because she had made her self a target for men's eyes. Was that why he had said to her: "This is a fine thing for you to be doing!" in that rough, harsh way? ... Because he hated to see the sister of the woman he was in love with, cheapen herself by dancing in public? ...

Was that it?

"No fellow likes to see other men giving his girl the once-over," Ted's voice was running on, close to her. "When a fellow's crazy about a girl he wants her all to himself, and he doesn't want her to do anything that folks might criticize her for. It's all right for the other fellow's girl to smoke and drink and flirt, and so on, but—"

"Don't talk any more Billy Sunday stuff to me!" Sally blazed out at him. "I don't smoke and drink and flirt, and I'm not going to be scolded for things I don't do! You make me sick, Ted Sloan! I danced for the money there was in it. The money for Aunt Em and me—and it was you who put me up to it! Now, you just take your little lecture course and run along!" Banging the glass bowl and the big wooden blending spoon down upon the table, she stalked out of the kitchen, leaving Ted open-mouthed with astonishment behind her.

When she came downstairs a half hour later, in her plain blue linen dress, with a big white apron tied over it, her cheeks were still scarlet and her eyes still blazing dangerously with unspent anger.

"Men! They're the biggest hypocrites!" she cried to Aunt Em. "I don't know very many of them, but the ones I do know are all alike. And I detest them all!"

She went into the dining room with a large glass dish of olives and celery for Beau and Mabel, who had dropped in for a free meal, bringing the baby with them.

Sally carried the tiny thing up to her own room, rolled it up in a blanket on the foot of her bed, and gave it its bottle.

Mabel was full of gossip and chatter that night.

"I'm still working for Mr. Nye," she gurgled, with her little mouth full of cream of corn soup. "I gave up the job for two days—and I just couldn't STAND taking care of the baby and washing dishes all day. So I hired a girl for $12 a week, and went back to the office! I had a letter from Mabel, too. She met the most wonderful man on shipboard—a South American who has a coffee plantation. She was all steamed up about him!"

"Trust her to meet a man, no matter where she happens to be!" snapped Aunt Em, coming in with fresh rolls and butter, just in time to hear this last bit of news. "She'd find a man if there was only one left in the world—and she'd land him, too, no matter how many other women were chasing him!"

"She didn't land John Nye," observed Mabel, with the wise air of a young owl.

"She didn't, eh? Well, she had him running around like an electric train for a good many months!" Aunt Em came back at her.

"She lost out, all the same," replied Mabel. "She tried to keep him and Davidson on the same string, and she lost out with both of them. Crossed wires, Aunt Em!"

Aunt Em whipped the napkin from the dish of hot rolls.

"Well, that won't bother her!" she predicted. "She'll probably marry this South American. If he has money, you can just bet she'll like all cats, she'll land on her feet every time!" And she swung around and went stiffly back to the kitchen.

Sally lingered, giving a touch to a vase of lavender and pink asters on the serving table, polishing two or three of the glasses, straightening a fork here and smoothing down a tablecloth there.

"Where's your orchestra?" asked Mabel.

"We—decided to let it go," answered Sally.

"Aren't you dancing any more?" Mabel went on, her glinted eyes going beneath the white apron to the dark blue dress that Sally wore.

"No."

"What's the big idea?" Mabel wanted to know next. "Don't you know people want to come to a tomb like this?" Her piercing gaze traveled around the empty dining room.

"Yes, they will. They'll come to any place where there is good food," declared Sally, quoting from Aunt Em. But her heart was not so brave as her words sounded.

However, that night business was good.

"I told you we'd put it over, I told you that people would keep on coming here, now that they know how good our dinners always are!" Aunt Em triumphed when she emptied the cash register at midnight, and called it a day.

But she was wrong, after all.

For by the end of two weeks word had gone around that The House by the Side of the Road had let its orchestra go, and that there was nothing to be had there but food—not even kinger ale and cracked ice. The crowd that dined out two or three times a week in a gay crowd, and it follows music and gaiety and rioting. It is a roadhouse crowd, and The House by the Side of the Road had ceased to be a roadhouse. It had become an old-fashioned southern style dining room again.

On the last Saturday night in the month Sally came downstairs at 10 o'clock with a pile of clean table linen over her arm and stopped dead still at the bottom of the long-winding flight, her face white with surprised terror.

Two motorcycle policemen were crossing the threshold from the front porch. They looked at her, said nothing, and walked across the hall to the wide doorway, looking over the hand full of people at tables in the dining room.

Sally looked them over, too. ... Suppose any of them did happen to have liquor with them! Suppose they did!

"Aunt Em and I would have to go out of business altogether!" she told herself, and her lovely, soft face was quite haggard as she walked slowly up behind the two policemen and waited breathlessly.

"Yes, they will. They'll come to any place where there is good food," declared Sally, quoting from Aunt Em. But her heart was not so brave as her words sounded.

However, that night business was good.

"I told you we'd put it over, I told you that people would keep on coming here, now that they know how good our dinners always are!" Aunt Em triumphed when she emptied the cash register at midnight, and called it a day.

But she was wrong, after all.

For by the end of two weeks word had gone around that The House by the Side of the Road had let its orchestra go, and that there was nothing to be had there but food—not even kinger ale and cracked ice. The crowd that dined out two or three times a week in a gay crowd, and it follows music and gaiety and rioting. It is a roadhouse crowd, and The House by the Side of the Road had ceased to be a roadhouse. It had become an old-fashioned southern style dining room again.

On the last Saturday night in the month Sally came downstairs at 10 o'clock with a pile of clean table linen over her arm and stopped dead still at the bottom of the long-winding flight, her face white with surprised terror.

Two motorcycle policemen were crossing the threshold from the front porch. They looked at her, said nothing, and walked across the hall to the wide doorway, looking over the hand full of people at tables in the dining room.

Sally looked them over, too. ... Suppose any of them did happen to have liquor with them! Suppose they did!

"Aunt Em and I would have to go out of business altogether!" she told herself, and her lovely, soft face was quite haggard as she walked slowly up behind the two policemen and waited breathlessly.

cream of corn soup. "I gave up the job for two days—and I just couldn't STAND taking care of the baby and washing dishes all day. So I hired a girl for $12 a week, and went back to the office! I had a letter from Mabel, too. She met the most wonderful man on shipboard—a South American who has a coffee plantation. She was all steamed up about him!"

"Trust her to meet a man, no matter where she happens to be!" snapped Aunt Em, coming in with fresh rolls and butter, just in time to hear this last bit of news. "She'd find a man if there was only one left in the world—and she'd land him, too, no matter how many other women were chasing him!"

"She didn't land John Nye," observed Mabel, with the wise air of a young owl.

"She didn't, eh? Well, she had him running around like an electric train for a good many months!" Aunt Em came back at her.

"She lost out, all the same," replied Mabel. "She tried to keep him and Davidson on the same string, and she lost out with both of them. Crossed wires, Aunt Em!"

Aunt Em whipped the napkin from the dish of hot rolls.

"Well, that won't bother her!" she predicted. "She'll probably marry this South American. If he has money, you can just bet she'll like all cats, she'll land on her feet every time!" And she swung around and went stiffly back to the kitchen.

Sally lingered, giving a touch to a vase of lavender and pink asters on the serving table, polishing two or three of the glasses, straightening a fork here and smoothing down a tablecloth there.

"Where's your orchestra?" asked Mabel.

"We—decided to let it go," answered Sally.

"Aren't you dancing any more?" Mabel went on, her glinted eyes going beneath the white apron to the dark blue dress that Sally wore.

"No."

"What's the big idea?" Mabel wanted to know next. "Don't you know people want to come to a tomb like this?" Her piercing gaze traveled around the empty dining room.

"Yes, they will. They'll come to any place where there is good food," declared Sally, quoting from Aunt Em. But her heart was not so brave as her words sounded.

Miss Ralston heads the list with Neil Hamilton, Maude Truax, Jocelyn Lee, Rosa Bardick, Romaine Fielding, Arthur Hoyt and Roscoe Karns all privileged to come under the category of "old troupers."

The story depicts Miss Ralston as maid in her aunt's theatrical boarding house. She remains steadfast in her resolution to steer clear of the bright lights until Neil comes along. A struggling composer, he endeavors to make her believe that he's a big success—Ivory Berlin's only rival. However, seeing a pile of rejection slips, she determines to help him by getting to Arthur Hoyt, a theatrical manager. Wearing a lot of borrowed clothes she manages to make a good impression on the dapper little man and he soon promises to hear Neil's songs if Esther will help him get rid of all the beautiful chorines who continually follow him around. She agrees. Neil hears that Esther and Hoyt are becoming too friendly. Misunderstanding her motives, he suddenly disappears. Then—but see "Ten Modern Commandments." It looks like tip-top entertainment. The final kick of the picture arrives when Esther, unable to force Jocelyn Lee, the star of the revue, to sing Neil's song, desperately throws a wrench in the theatre lighting system. Then, ingeniously, with the aid of an electric torch, she takes the stage and stops the show! Sounds like a good twist, doesn't it?
